Foreword

The second Gek Contemporary exhibition on art works collected on our travels, this time featuring paintings plus a fabric art work.

Given the extraordinary times we are currently living through, where appropriate, links are given to the relevant blog entries related to paintings.

If we cannot travel in real time, we can still do it through memories, yes?

About the Artists

Rosalind Baker

Rosalind, from Gansey on the Isle of Man, painted a series of miniatures entitled “Wildlife in Miniature” which do come up on a Google search. Unfortunately, no details of the artist are included in the posts.

Ramblas Street Artists

The Ramblas in Barcelona is lined with all sorts of street artist. I regret now not taking notice of this artists name.

Pamela Veresmith-Fraser

Pamala has been “painting for the past 20 years and has had her work exhibited all over New Zealand.” Follow the link below to see more of her works.

Junko Mukai

We met Junko in her studio cum shop as we were walking up to Piazzale Michelangelo. Originally from Japan, she now lives in Florence and paints Tuscany scenes in miniature. Follow the link to see more of her paintings and do visit her shop if you are ever that way.

Mohr

As hard as I tried, I cannot find any information on Mohr, the only clue on his paintings. So many artists “do” Tuscany. Impossible find.

Grandma

For this lady I need a translation of this label.
